POSTAL SAVINGS BANK IS OPPOSED BY THE BANKERS

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Not a voice was raised today in defense of the postal savings bank plan in the session of the American Bankers' association in convention, nor was there a word uttered in favor of the guaranty of deposits in state or national banks. In formal reports, speeches and impromptu remarks, both ideas were repeatedly scored by the bankers, who are apparently of one mind in opposing the two remedies offered for relief of the financial conditions. The savings bank section elected William R. Gregg of Cleveland president.

"The Administration of Criminal Law a Dis- grace as the Poor Man Does Not Have an Equal Opportunity as the Rich," Says President Taft.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—A strong defense of labor's right to organize in a lawful manner was the feature of an address by President Taft in Orchestra hall here tonight. The president also said he would recommend to congress legislation on the injunction, as promised in the Republican platform. He insisted that the rights of non-union labor must be fully protected, saying that nobody should be forced into a union. Taft's address was the principal event of his visit to Chicago. Before speaking he rode through the streets and reviewed a parade of 150,000 school children; took luncheon at the Commercial club, and attended a game in which the New York Nationals defeated Chicago. Taft in his address said: "It was just a year ago that I made a speech in this same hall to 1800 members of railroad men's organizations, in the course of which I attempted to convince them that there was nothing in my decisions as circuit judge, in labor injunction cases, which ought to make them vote against me for president."

"You will remember, perhaps, that the head of the American Federation of Labor, who declared himself for my opponent, was anxious to carry the whole union labor vote against me, the ground of his action being my decisions as a judge. It was assumed by many that I would lose a large part of the labor vote, which heretofore had been about evenly divided between the Republicans and Democrats. The result of the election showed this assumption to be incorrect, and that the labor men—union labor as well as non-union—thought for themselves, and voted according to their own judgment, in spite of the federation official's declaration that he could turn the vote one way or the other. "During my discussion I said that I was as much interested as anyone in maintaining the cause of labor, when organized or unorganized, by proper methods, and sought better conditions by legislation and otherwise. Now that the election has come and gone, I will take this opportunity of saying that I have not forgotten the promises of myself or those of the Republican platform, and I propose at the next session of congress to propose legislation on the subject of the injunction, as promised in the Republican platform, and see if by such legislation it isn't possible to avoid the few cases of abuses that can be cited against the federal courts. "I cannot sympathize with the element among employers and investors who are utterly opposed to organized labor. Instead, I believe it was the proper course for laborers to unite to defend their interests, and also it was wise to provide a fund which, should the occasion arise when strikes and lock-outs come those who lose their places may be supported pending adjustment of the difficulties. The employers who decline to recognize organized labor as a proper element in the settlement of wage controversies, are behind the times. "Nothing that I have said should be construed into an attitude of criticism against, or as unfriendly to the workers who for any reason do not join the unions. They have a right to work for whom and at what price they please. "The effects of organized labor upon such abuses as the employment of child labor, the exposure of laborers to undue risk in dangerous employments, and a continuance of the unjust rules of law exempting employers from liability for accident to laborers, has been direct, immediate and useful. Reforms in these matters would probably have been long delayed but for the efforts of organized labor. "In France the trades unions are intensely socialistic and the same tendency is rapidly growing in England and Germany. I need not attempt to point out the deplorable results in this country if the trades unions become socialistic. Those controlling the Federation of Labor and all the great railroad corporations, have set themselves fairly against the propaganda of socialistic principles, but favor providing

HARRIMAN LEAVES THE ENTIRE ESTATE TO HIS WIDOW

Mrs. Mary A Harriman is Now Considered One of the Very Wealthiest Women in the World.

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—One hundred brief words, each weighted with approximately one million dollars, containing in its entirety the last will and testament of E. H. Harriman, which was given out today, makes the widow, Mrs. Mary A. Harriman, one of the wealthiest women in the world. All Harriman's property is left to his wife. Wall street estimates Mrs. Harriman's heritage in real and personal property at between seventy-five and one hundred million dollars. Harriman's private fortune is supposed to have been greater by many millions, and there is reason to believe that his three daughters, two sons, sister and other relatives have all been substantially provided for with gifts out of hand and by trust funds set aside by the railroad magnate during his life time. The will is dated June 8, 1903, and was witnessed by Charles A. Peabody, president of the Mutual Life Insurance company, who drew it, and I. C. Tegethoff, Harriman's private secretary.

our present institutions with such remedial legislation as will put the laboring on an equality with their opponents."

Mr. Taft devoted the second section of his address to the courts. He declared that there is no question before the American people of more importance than the administration of justice. He said he will recommend to congress the appointment of a commission to take up the question of the law's delay in the federal courts, and hoped the report of this commission would serve as a guide to states in effecting remedial legislation. The president asserted that the administration of the criminal laws is a disgrace to American civilization, as a poor man hasn't an opportunity with the rich.

In conclusion, Mr. Taft said he would discuss the tariff later on.

NO CLEMENCY FOR MILLIONAIRE'S SON

ATLANTA, Ga., September 16.—Declaring that there is only one law in Georgia for rich and poor alike, Governor Joseph M. Brown has rebuked the prison commission for recommending clemency to W. H. Mitchell of Thomasville who, disguised as a negro, kidnapped and attempted to ravish Miss Lucile Linton, and ordered that Mitchell be taken to the chain gang to serve his sentence.

Mitchell is one of the most prominent men in south Georgia and strenuous efforts have been made to save him from the chain gang. Such powerful influence was used on the prison commission that it asked Governor Brown to keep the prisoner out of the chain gang. In rebuking the commission Governor Brown says:

"Should the clemency asked for in the present case be extended there is grave danger that it would bear fruits of sorrow in every section of our state. It would set up an example pernicious beyond compare, an example embodying a daily menace to Georgia's womanhood. It would say that we have one law for the rich, another for the poor; one law for the highly educated, another for those too poor to enjoy the privileges and immunities consequent upon education; one law for the classes, another for the masses."
